When an operator initiates communication, the module creates a virtual desktop with a custom interface.\n\n"During normal operation, the alternate desktop is created and fully controlled by the module, copying the icons from the desktop, creating a custom taskbar for managing its processes and creating a custom right-click menu, containing custom functionality," Bitdefender researchers write in their report.\n\nRight click menu for Trickbot's tvncDLL\n\nUsing the command prompt, the threat actor can download fresh payloads from the C2 server, open documents and the email inbox, steal data from the compromised system.\n\nAnother option called Native

 The researchers say that while the old vncDLL module has been in use since at least 2018, its successor became active in the wild on May 11, 2021, according to evidence revealed during their investigation.
 Telemetry data from Bitdefender data shows Trickbot's C2 servers spread on almost all continents, with the largest number (54) located in North America. According to the company, the number of C2 servers has increased significantly this year, jumping from around 40 in January to more than 140 in June.

started to increase to such levels that in May it was the most prevalent malware on Check Point's radar.\n\nThe malware maintained its position this month, too, the cybersecurity company notes in a report today, adding that Trickbot's maintainers are constantly working to improve it.\n\nAccording to Check Point's telemetry, Trickbot impacted 7% of organizations across the world, followed by the XMRig cryptocurrency miner the Formbook info stealer, which affected 3% of the organizations that Check Point monitors worldwide.\n\nNew VNC module in the works\n\nIn another report, Romanian cybersecurity company Bitdefender says that its systems caught a new version of Trickbot's VNC module (vncDLL), used after compromising high-profile targets.\n\nThe updated module is called tvncDLL and allows the threat actor to monitor the victim and collect information that would enable pivoting to valuable systems on the network.\n\nAlthough tvncDLL was discovered on May 12, the Romanian researchers say that it is still under development, "since the group has a frequent update schedule, regularly adding new functionalities and bug fixes."\n\nBitdefender's analysis of the module points out that it uses a custom communication protocol and reaches the command and control (C2) server through one of nine proxy IP addresses that enable access to victims behind firewalls.\n\nTrickbot's tvncDLL module attack overview\n\nThe VNC component can stop Trickbot and unload it from memory. When an operator initiates communication, the module creates a virtual desktop with a custom interface.\n\n"During normal operation, the alternate desktop is created and fully controlled by the module, copying the icons from the desktop, creating a custom taskbar for managing its processes and creating a custom right-click menu, containing custom functionality," Bitdefender researchers write in their report.\n\nRight click menu for Trickbot's tvncDLL\n\nUsing the command prompt, the threat actor can download fresh payloads from the C2 server, open documents and the email inbox, steal data from the compromised system.\n\nAnother option called Native

Browser fires up a web browser by taking advantage of the OLE automation feature in Internet Explorer.\n\nThe function is under development and its purpose is to steal passwords from Google Chrome, Mozilla Firefox, Opera, and Internet Explorer.\n\nTrickbot's tvncDLL Native Browser feature\n\nThe researchers say that while the old vncDLL module has been in use since at least 2018, its successor became active in the wild on May 11, 2021, according to evidence revealed during their investigation.\n\nTelemetry data from Bitdefender data shows Trickbot's C2 servers spread on almost all continents, with the largest number (54) located in North America. According to the company, the number of C2 servers has increased significantly this year, jumping from around 40 in January to more than 140 in June.\n\nRelated Articles:\n\nSoftware maker removes \"backdoor\" giving root access to radio devices\n\nBazarBackdoor sneaks in through nested RAR and ZIP archives\n\nTrickbot cybercrime group linked to new Diavol ransomware\n\nUS charges Latvian for helping develop the Trickbot malware\n\nNew BazaFlix attack pushes BazarLoader malware via fake movie site" crylock - they say they broke down there, they have pentesters, targets, they only need a locker. I say ok, we will give for 30%, they rested, they say a lot. I need to clamp them down and try to steal advers and pentesters from them, I'm thinking how to do it))\n\n \' akonitborec@thesecure.biz In general, I'm the admin of another cryptolocker, not so popular on administration. Your locker fell into my hands from intermediaries and I tested it, it's not bad, so I wrote. If you have a more interesting offer for%, then I'm ready to consider it. \'\\n\\n\\nWe drove the pentesters to Khorsa there, found a few more

- crylock. And now we have a hitch there and we will rewrite it, this is for a long time. So to keep my work going, I'm looking for a new locker partner. I have several teams of pentesters, several independent pentesters and my own targets, all kinds. I only need a locker, but in fact 30% will not suit me. Because big teams worked for me for a smaller percentage, and I still have to earn something on administration. Your locker fell into my hands from intermediaries and I tested it, it's not bad, so I wrote. If you have a more interesting offer for%, then I'm ready to consider it. \"\n\nWe drove the pentesters to Khorsa there, found a few more encoders this week, the enrollment is slowly progressing.\n\nCollected all the reports on the modules and bugs of the trick, while the main thing is with importdll and superbrowser, everything else works fine, everything has been cleaned\\updated. 89062696551\nAnswers to the most frequent questions:\n1. How are resume openings counted?\nYou can open as many resume tabs as you like and see all the information except for the contact information. By clicking on the "Open contacts" button, you are charged 1 view. At the bottom of the program, you can see the number of resumes available to you.\n\n2. How to pay for a resume package?\nFirst, you determine how many resumes you need and pay in advance the required amount. If you don't have enough resume, you can buy more by notifying me 24 hours in advance.\n\n3. How many resumes can I view per day?\nAs many as you want within your package, even if it's all in 1 day.\n\n4. What does it mean that resumes can burn out?\nFor example, you pay a tariff for a week or a month, your resumes will be open during this period. We have paid for a year, so resumes will not be burned.\n\n5. Will some CVs be opened?\nYes, some CVs are already open for you, over time their number will be 30-35%. Those. out of 10 CVs, approximately 3 will already be available.\n\n5. In what form do I get access?\nEntrance to the account is carried out through a special program - this is dictated by the conditions security. Everything else is the same.\n\n6. How many people can use purchased cabinet?\nOne cabinet - one user, if you need more users, buy an additional cabinet.\n\n7. When does the access time start running?\nAs soon as I sent the username/password."

Another question is how they give it away if they spam there big attachments - honeypots are inevitable.. I requested reports on crypts and stubs - everything works. Hof cleans the sources. So I don't see a problem on our side. Tomorrow I'll test everything on my virtual machines with pens, we'll figure it out. But most likely they are either crooked spam or cock bases.."
